Animal agencies answer charges

BY DENA BISNETTE

Members of the Hancock County Animal Commission and the Bay-Waveland Humane Society have answered charges concerning the financial records of both agencies.

Eugene Aronstein, a BaySide Park resident, had appeared at last week's supervisors meeting and had accused the agencies of failure to provide financial records and possible mismanagement of funds.

On Monday, information on the finances of both agencies was presented to Aronstein and three county supervisors in a special meeting chaired by Sam Perniciaro, Beat Four supervisor and one of three elected officials serving on the Hancock County Animal Commission.

The commission is in charge of the Hancock County Animal Shelter and consists of elected officials and appointed members.

Elected officials on the commission include Perniciaro, Bay St. Louis Councilman, Sheldon Seuzeneau and Waveland Alderman Louis Smolensky.

Appointed members are Robert

Boudin and Louis Fernandez representing the county, John Smith and Lisa Cowan representing Bay St. Louis, Emile Malandra and Cel Dumestre representing Waveland, and John Sconza and Ardley Hanemann representing the Humane Society.

Although some members of the commission are also Humane Society members, the two agencies are separate. The Humane Society, however, contributes to the commission, as do Waveland, Bay St. Louis and the county.

Dumestre, the commission chairman, played a tape recording from the supervisor's meeting where Aronstein listed his charges.

He dismissed Aronstein's claims that he was unable to obtain commission financial records as a problem that was caused by a request made through the wrong channels.

Dumestre maintained that Aronstein had tried to obtain financial data concerning the animal shelter and commission records from the Humane Society rather than the commission.

BaySide resident gets association reactivated

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

In protest of having a bullet shot through her dining room window, BaySide Park resident Betty J. Smith organized a community meeting and has helped to reactivate the BaySide Park Civic Association.

Last week Smith reported that a .22 caliber bullet had been shot through her window. This gunshot prompted her to accept a temporary position as president of the reactivated civic association and she is now working to establish a neighborhood watch.

Smith said she believes the civic association was active for a while but has been inactive for several years.

"The number of residents here has tripled since I moved here three years ago and we just had to do something," she said.

Smith added that she had learned of another bullet being shot through a residence window and of a home being burglarized only a week before the incident at her home.

"We just needed to get the people together. Through the civic association, we can have a neighborhood watch and start eliminating some of the problems," Smith added.

Smith said she had been met with a great deal of enthusiasm and support before the meeting and was surprised at the outstanding turnout.

"We had about 40 residents to attend the meeting Tuesday night and there had really been no publicity," she added.

"The residents seemed very enthusiastic and expressed how much the association is needed," Smith said, "they seemed glad it had been reactivated and the response was great from people interested in working with the association."

Smith said at the meeting, residents also discussed ways to get the community cleaned up and decided to try to get the area established as a game and bird sanctuary so no firearms can be discharged in BaySide Park.

Other temporary officers elected include Frank Saucier, vice president; Ashley Paroli, treasurer; Doris Bach, secretary; and Joyce Garcia, sergeant-at-arms.

Smith said she accepted the presidency temporarily because she feels a person who is retired and can devote more time to the association would be ideal for president's position.

At the neighborhood meeting Deputy Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Malcolm Tullier, president of the Shoreline Park Civic Association, spoke to the residents, Smith said.

Smith said Karl gave an "informative and helpful" presentation on how to get the neighborhood watch established and that Tullier gave the BaySide Park residents pointers on getting their organization working and getting things accomplished.

The next meeting is set for Feb. 26 at 7 p.m. at St. Ann's Hall.

"We have a lot of hard work ahead of us and thankfully the residents seem to be ready to work toward the goals we have set," Smith said.

Port to seek foreign industry

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Leo Seal, president of Hancock Bank, met with members of the Hancock Port and Harbor Commission Monday to discuss a proposed plan to interest foreign industry in locating on the Mississippi coast.

Seal told the commission he wanted to emphasize the importance of Hancock County's participation in the project which will include a visit to England to promote and encourage potential industrial clients in the area.

He also said a professional video film presentation of developments of the area would be supplied by the Mississippi Power Association for the presentation.

"We at the bank have always tried to help development of the area we locate in and if we can get a few people to come over here, it might be well worth our effort," he said.

Seal said previous visits to foreign countries have attracted industry that might not have otherwise been interested in the area.

An estimate has placed the price of the project at $30,000 but Seal told commissioners that Hancock County would not be expected to put up a third of the funds.

"We think that to get the exposure, you should give serious considera-

Supervisors advertising proposals

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday passed two resolutions on bond issues to finance a new Hancock General Hospital.

The supervisors approved advertising their intent to issue up to $11 million in revenue bonds and $15 million in general obligation bonds after being addressed by Hospital Administrator Philip Langston.

Before issuing the bonds, the board is required to publish its intent to do so for three weeks and hold a public hearing. The hearing has been set for Feb. 14.

If the public objects, the approval of both bond issues could be turned over to the county's voters.

Petitions to bring the bond issues to an election would have to be signed by the lesser of 1,500 people or 20 percent of the county's voters for the revenue bonds and the lesser of 2,000 people or 20 percent of the voters for the general obligation bonds.

Langston told the board that neither bond issue will require tax increases. Existing millage already allocated to the hospital will be used to pay off the general obligation bonds, while income generated by the new facility will be used to repay the revenue bonds.

If the bonds are sold on schedule, construction will begin about June 1, Langston said.

"Because the present facility is deteriorating and we face the possibility of losing some of our staff to other hospitals in the area, we need to get the new facility into operation as soon as possible," Langston told the board.

In other business Monday, the board approved the abandonment of Birch Street in Pearlington; heard a request from Public Defender William Frisbie for more funding for the public defender's office; and set its next meeting for Jan. 30.

Pearlington resident pleads for protection

BY DENA BISNETTE

A concerned Pearlington resident addressed the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday about what he feels is a need for increased police protection in his community.

James Baldree, Pearlington businessman and principal of Waveland Elementary School, said he is concerned because crime in the Pearlington area has been increasing and the type of crimes committed have become more violent.

He asked the board if it would be possible to set up a substation of the Sheriff's Department in the Pearlington Community Center to provide the area with better protection.

He said Pearlington is located about 15 miles from Bay St. Louis and 15 miles from Slidell, La., therefore creating a 15-mile gap between the community and police protection other than deputies on patrol.

The sheriff's department already has a northern substation, but it is not staffed on a full-time basis because there is not enough funding in the department's budget.

Deputies on patrol in that area stop at the substation to make reports or telephone calls as well as to make themselves more generally available to local residents.

Baldree is interested in having a similar facility or a full-time substation at the community center.

He feels having a substation would provide more protection than patrols, which include one vehicle south of Interstate-10 and one vehicle north of I-10.

The supervisors said they could provide a telephone in the center, which is already a county-owned building, but left the responsibility of staffing a Pearlington substation to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson favors the idea of creating a Pearlington substation, but said his department's $440,000 budget, which already provides salaries for eight deputies and two investigators in addition to other expenses such as vehicles, gasoline and general operating costs, makes staffing a problem.

"I think it would be a real accomplishment to set up a substation there, especially due to the situation we have with Louisiana and the possibility of having people commit crimes in Pearlington and then crossing the state line," the sheriff said.

"No matter where in the county a crime happens, it would be good to have a unit there that could set up a roadblock, since one of the major routes out of the county crosses through Pearlington."

The cost of a substation would vary from $25,000 to $30,000 with full-time deputies assigned to three shifts. Some $10,000 to $15,000 would be needed for a weekend-only staff.

The department would also have to provide a car, which would cost $3,000 over the vehicle price with law enforcement equipment.

"We don't have a car available but we do have money set aside in our budget for one more," Peterson said.

"I do intend to look into the possibility of providing some kind of substation at Pearlington with whatever money we can find available," Peterson said.

"If each of the supervisors donated $2,000 per year from his budget, we could do it," Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay said.

NAACP event set Saturday

Mississippi NAACP vice president Curley Clark of Moss Point will be guest speaker at the sixth annual Hancock Chapter, NAACP Supper Theatre Saturday.

Clark, 34, a native of Mobile, Ala., also attended Tennessee State University.

The Supper Theatre, which includes an annual birthday salute to the late Dr. Martin Luther King, also will feature entertainment by local performers in addition to Clark's address.

The program is scheduled to get underway at 7 p.m. at Gulfside Assembly Center on South Beach Boulevard, Waveland.

Annunciation School extends deadline

BY DENA BISNETTE

If another 25 students are not enrolled for the 1985-86 school term by Tuesday, Jan. 22, Annunciation Catholic School will have to close.

According to Clifford Lizana, a member of the Annunciation Parish Council, 105 students have already enrolled but 130 are needed to keep the school open.

The original deadline for the enrollment of 130 was Tuesday, but the council decided at its meeting Tuesday night to extend the deadline one more week, Lizana said.

"We're making a plea that parents help us survive by enrolling their children," he said.

"It would be a hardship on the county if we lost this school because the children would have to attend Hancock North Central, which is already crowded."

Declining enrollment is causing financial problems because the school lost a major source of funding in September when the Trinitarian missionary order, which has operated the facility since 1963, told school officials the order could no longer help the school.

Contributions to the order have declined for several years and what funds are available have been diverted to provide assistance to the needy.

Trinitarian funding for the school is scheduled to end in May.

"If we can get the other 25 to enroll, their registration fees and tuition should help us with the financial problem," Lizana added.

Enrollment information is available from Annunciation School at 255-1889 or the Annunciation Parish Convent at 255-1894.

Ladner unanimously approved as new principal for Bay High

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Bay St. Louis Municipal School District trustees Monday approved appointment of Frank Ladner as principal of Bay Senior High School. Ladner is currently serving as assistant principal at the high school and will replace Robert McGee who has been promoted to assistant superintendent of the district.

"I feel great about the promotion and am glad to have such a wonderful faculty, staff and student body to work with," Ladner said.

He added that he anticipates no major changes, but hopes to do a good job in the principal's position.

Ladner was assistant principal for the past 14 years. He also served as a Title I coordinator at the school, a guidance counselor and an industrial arts instructor.

He has worked for the Bay St. Louis school district for a total of 25 years.

Ladner has a specialist degree in the field of guidance, a master's degree in guidance and industrial arts and a bachelor's degree in industrial arts.

He is a 1957 graduate of Pearl River Central Junior College and a 1955 graduate of Dedeaux High School. Ladner is a native of Fenton.

He and his wife, the former Beverly Schindler of Bay St. Louis, have four children.

During its regular monthly meeting Monday evening, the board set the date of an upcoming election for a board member from the Waveland area for March 2 from 2-5 p.m. at Waveland Elementary.

The trustees voted to initiate soccer as a varsity sport at the high school for the 1985-86 school year.

Athletic director Wilmer Seymour recommended to the board that the sport be installed to give soccer players a bridge to cross the gap from youth soccer to college soccer.

In other business, the board:

- Accepted the resignation of Andri Worsham, the ninth and 10th grade geometry teacher;
- Approved a field trip for French students to southwest Louisiana;
- Voted to send Garland Cuevas, business manager for the school district, to the Mississippi Association of School Business Officials conference set for late January in Jackson; and
- Approved dismissal of school teachers to attend a rally being held in Jackson today.

BY KATY MCGUIRE CAIRE

If ever I should be shipwrecked on some deserted island, I hope that it's overrun, or at least well supplied with banana trees—or plants, if you want to call 'em plants—for I could survive for quite some time on this nearly perfect foodstuff, couldn't you?

Bananas, we are told, were tantalizing palates as far back as three centuries B.C., and were cultivated on plantations in the New World in the 1670's, long after their discovery along the Indus River in Southern Asia. They were for a time an expensive delicacy in our country until the industry turned it into an affordable staple shortly after the turn of the century when companies began shipping Latin-American bananas on refrigerated produce boats.

One of the diet mainstays in the West Indies, as well as in Latin America, central and tropical South America and the Pacific Islands and central Africa, to name a few, bananas brighten up any menu.

Every house or hut in banana growing countries has its stand of bananas nearby, and the fruit grows like weeds. Bananas, of course, are commercially grown on large plantations.

And bananas are so versatile—from simply eating a tasty ripe banana to concocting superb desserts, with many variations along the way. Banana bread or cake or pudding or pie come quickly to mind, and to table, as do banana pancakes or fritters, banana splits and so forth.

But don't save the bananas for desserts. They are excellent "side dishes" or accompaniments to chicken or ham or meats or seafood. One of my favorites is:

HOT PEPPER BANANAS

6 bananas
4 Tbsp. butter or margarine
3 Tbsp. lime or lemon juice
Hearty dash of Tabasco pepper sauce

Several twists freshly ground black pepper

3 Tbsp. brandy (optional)
Peel the bananas and slice diagonally into two inch slices. Melt the butter in a skillet, add the bananas, lime or lemon juice, pepper and Tabasco, stirring gently to blend. Heat just until the bananas are heated, then turn the mixture into a chafing dish or other dish, and serve warm with chicken or ham or pork or curried dishes, or even seafood.

If you're giving the extra touch of flaming, when you remove the bananas from the skillet, turn the mixture into the chafing dish or flame-proof oven to table serving dish. Heat brandy in a small saucepan, just until you see the liquid making heat waves. Strike a match, and as it ignites and flames, pour the brandy over the bananas, and stir ever so gently—showmanship and simple to do!

This vital economic base is operated solely by only three percent of the country's population. This amounts to about 13 million jobs that depend directly on agriculture. Of these, only 3.7 million work on the farm. Farmers need help.

Even in the past several decades agriculture has seen astonishing changes and the future will bring even more. The most dramatic changes have been the switch from hoe to herbicides, from manure to chemical fertilizers, from manual bookkeeping to computer programs, satellite weather and land use inventories.

The microchip has entered engine electronics in cars, trucks and tractors. Robots are coming with machines that will harvest, process, package, palletize, shrink wrap and load crops on trucks as they cross the fields or move through the forest.

Experts say food service with 37 percent of the food dollar is expected to increase to 50 percent by 1990. Some 4.5 million people worked in this area in 1980.

At an annual use of about three acres of land per person, in just 23 years a world population of seven billion people will exceed the three acres per person standard.

The United States will exceed the standard in about 83 years and Mississippi will exceed the standard in 97 years. This means that for awhile agribusiness in the U.S. will produce more jobs, more food, more fiber and lead the world's fight against hunger, before our exports begin to decline.

If the world can bring the 4.7 billion population to zero growth, resources will not diminish below the plant's capacity as is now occurring in Africa and some parts of Asia. Zero growth would require an average of two children per family with our present life span. It would mean that as one person dies another person is born so the population can remain in balance with resources.

Presently a person in the United States living 75 years consumes 52.6 tons of food. But, he also consumes an acre of wood annually for shelter and paper plus cotton, fiber and leather for clothing and shoes. As life spans are lengthened, each person will tend to put more pressure on resources. The needs for agricultural technology, erosion control, land forming, better land use and balancing production with demand in this country will intensify.

Inspections of businesses and public buildings will begin in Bay St. Louis on Monday by the Fire Department, according to Chief Andrew Lizana.

There will also be scheduled school fire drills by the department.

These inspections and fire drills are necessary and we hope every will cooperate with firefighters.

The shrill sound of a steam whistle and smell of smoke from the Mississippi Museum's steam locomotive last Saturday brought back memories to many who braved cold weather to witness its pass through the area.

We spoke to one resident of Waveland at the Beach Boulevard crossing in Bay St. Louis who said he was eating breakfast and heard the whistle. He leaped from the table, put his pants and shirt over his pajamas and grabbed a coat and took off so he could view the engine close up.

Many residents took the opportunity last summer to ride the Mississippi Museum train at Port Bienville.

This summer two additional coaches will be added to the train in order to double capacity, according to Mrs. J.V. Cannon, wife of the engineer.

The old Baldwin Locomotive constructed in 1925 will be undergoing minor repairs at Mobile and is scheduled to return in late April.

Some special runs for school children are set for May with regular weekend service for the nine mile round-trip to begin in June.

This summer you may want to return to memory lane and take trip on a steam engine the way it was years ago.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors went on record last week opposing the proposed realignment of judicial districts.

Some areas may have problems with the current alignment of counties, but we agree with the local leaders that our districts should remain intact.

A number of school teachers from the Hancock County and Bay St. Louis School Districts are on their way to Jackson this morning.

They will be meeting school teachers from throughout the state who are marching on the state capitol to show their support for higher teacher salaries.

The Mississippi Legislature has many real hard tasks this session and money needs will be the key to solving many of them.

It will be interesting to see the outcome on the teachers' request. One thing is for sure, the teachers have the attention of our lawmakers.

Montgomery balks at disability tax

Mississippi Congressman G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery, chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs, is expressing "considerable misgivings" over reports that the Reagan Administration is planning to require veterans who receive compensation for service-connected injuries to pay federal income tax on those benefits.

In a letter to the President, Montgomery said that "these benefits have, from their inception, been exempted from taxation, and I cannot imagine any justification that would warrant a departure from this longstanding policy."

Montgomery has tentatively scheduled a hearing of the Full Committee on Feb. 20 to hear from the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs on the VA budget.

In this letter to the White House, he states that "in view of the adverse impact the taxing of compensation would have on service-connected disabled veterans, we must hear (Treasury) Secretary Regan's justification for his recommendation to you, and I will insist that he or his spokesman appear before the Committee on that date to present the Administration's views and to answer questions relating to the proposal."

Montgomery said that the difference between compensation rates and the average salary of wage earners today already reflects the tax-exempt status of those who receive the benefits. "Disabled veterans earn less than the average worker because of their physical handicaps," said Montgomery.

"If compensation were to be taxed, it would take higher rates to replace the lost income and this could wind up costing as much or more than would be gained by taxing the benefit."

The tax proposal comes amid what Montgomery calls a "furry" of proposed changes in VA benefits now being considered by the Administration, including the possible elimination of cost-of-living adjustments and the exclusion of many non-service-connected veterans from the VA health care system.

"I am greatly concerned, as are all veterans, that such a proposal is being seriously considered," said Montgomery. "These individuals earn their benefits by serving honorably in our military and by suffering disabilities connected to that service. It would be unjust to ask them to give up any portion of their current benefits."

DANGEROUS CROSSING—Sighting an oncoming train at the Waveland Avenue crossing of the Seaboard Lines tracks can be difficult for a motorist due to railroad cars which at times are parked close to the intersection on a siding parallel to the main line. Efforts have been made for years by Waveland officials to have signal lights installed at the crossing, but their pleas for added safety at the location have been thus far unsuccessful. Drivers are urged to exercise extreme caution at this crossing where a Waveland doctor was injured Sunday when her car was struck by a train.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Merit plan should be incorporated into legislation authorizing teacher pay hikes

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

The time has come for the Mississippi Legislature to raise our teacher's salaries.

It is also time to raise the standards of education in our state. However, raising teachers' salaries alone will not necessarily guarantee quality education for Mississippi school children.

While the iron is hot, our educational policy makers (local and state school boards and the legislature) should take teachers' pay one step further and incorporate a system of merit for our teachers and administrators.

I understand that the Education Reform Act of 1982 was supposed to deal with merit or incentive pay.

Any further delay by our public officials only serves to continue a system in which our really fine educators are forced to settle for the same pay as some of their colleagues who, unfortunately, merit less pay, and are in dire need of guidance and leadership in order to remain in the teaching profession.

Having had children in the public schools for the past nine and one-half years, I am personally convinced that the present method of "across the board" pay leaves a lot to be desired.

It has been a disappointing observation to me that more money (based only on length of service and academic credits) does not a better teacher or administrator make. It only makes him or her better paid.

Our teachers are requesting the Southeastern average in pay. Eugene Methvin, in his research for Reader's Digest (May, 1984), makes reference to two of our southern neighbors who have formulated merit pay.

For the past 20 years in Dalton, Ga., teachers who perform to expectations get merit pay of up to $3,000 a year.

Teachers themselves help shape performance criteria, and those who feel unfairly treated can appeal.

In his Better Schools Program,

Tennessee Governor Lamar Alexander included an incentive pay and career ladder plan to reward and promote the best teachers rather than encouraging "mediocrity" by low wages, lifetime contracts and not one penny of pay for outstanding performance."

According to Governor Alexander, "No state can afford to raise all teacher salaries high enough to keep the best people teaching, so we must do for teachers what we do in almost every other field of work in America; evaluate people periodically, and pay the best performers more."

Ladue, Mo. teachers can earn up to $4,500 yearly in bonuses. In a recent survey, 85 percent of their teachers were in favor of keeping merit pay.

Lake Forest, Ill. school board member Fredrick Genck says, "School boards that spend the public's money on teacher salaries without pay-for-performance plans abuse the public's trust—and taxes."

Let us not forget that the educational system itself subjects our children to merit from the first grade on up. They have daily grades, nine week report cards, honor roll, award banquets, and National Merit Scholarship Finalists.

And in our institutions of higher learning there are the Dean's and President's Lists.

Certainly if a ten-year-old child can be scrutinized on a report card for effort, attitude, preparation, participation, cooperation, and punctuality, should not come formula of merit be determined for teachers and administrators, in an effort to assure that all of those filling out report cards are at least worthy judges?

"Across the board" pay raises for teachers is to me as ridiculous as claiming that every student is entitled to the same grades regardless of performance.

In fact, I've had teachers tell me that they do not "give away" good grades, their students must "work hard to earn them."

This is as it should be. I could not agree more.

In conclusion, this cry for higher teacher pay, coupled with the poor record of public education in our state and country, may be the catalyst for our school board members and legislators to seriously study merit pay for our educators.

I believe it stands to benefit all—educators, parents, and most of all, students.

Sincerely,
Lana Noonan

State energy board adopts nuclear policy

"It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that nuclear waste not be stored in any geologic formation in the State of Mississippi." So begins the first of ten statements of policy formally adopted by the Mississippi Energy and Transportation Board at its Jan. 9 meeting.

The policies were first examined and adopted on an interim basis by the Board at its June 1984 meeting. Formal adoption of the policies reiterates the Energy and Transportation Board's opposition to nuclear waste storage in Mississippi.

Included in the policy is a statement of support for continuation of the governor's moratorium, which states that field work in Mississippi by the United States Department of Energy should be prohibited until all previous study reports have been provided to the State and reviewed to the governor's satisfaction.

The policy also reinforces the Board's previous stand that the Department of Energy or its contractors must adhere to State permitting regulations for such activities.

Public hearings on the policy statements were held by the Nuclear Waste Policy Advisory Council several weeks ago to give citizens an opportunity to recommend changes or additional issues which should be addressed.

Those public comments are still under advisement, and may also be formally adopted by the energy and Transportation Board, dependent upon the recommendation of the Policy Advisory Council.

For copies of the policy statement and other information on nuclear waste, contact the Department of Energy and Transportation's Energy Answerline, 1-800-222-8311.

OUTLINE OF TEN POLICY STATEMENTS ADOPTED BY MISSISSIPPI ENERGY AND TRANSPORTATION BOARD

JANUARY 7, 1985

1. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that nuclear waste not be stored in any geologic formation in the State of Mississippi.

2. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that there be strict compliance with all state law, including but not limited to all permitting rules and any other regulatory requirements.

3. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that, pursuant to the Governor's moratorium and the Federal Policy of Consultation and Cooperation, a cessation of field work in Mississippi by DOE should continue until such time as all documentation relative to the Nuclear Waste Program in Mississippi has been provided and reviewed to the satisfaction of the Governor.

4. At the beginning of any field work, by any agency, organization,

TARGETED JOBS

The Targeted Jobs Credit, a program aimed at providing jobs for persons in special categories who have had difficulty finding employment, was scheduled to end in 1984. The Tax Reform Act of 1984 will extend the provisions for one year, covering wages paid through 1985.

An employer may claim the credit only for wages to an employee who has been certified as a member of a targeted group, the Internal Revenue Service said. The certification, by a designated local agency, must be accomplished before the employee begins work.

For more information on who is eligible for the credit, request the free IRS Publication 906, "Jobs and Research Credits" by calling 1-800-241-3860 or write to: Internal Revenue Service, Southeast Distribution Center, Callers 848, Atlanta, GA 30370.

or entity other than that of the State of Mississippi, there must be in place a negotiated agreement detailing in writing at a minimum those provisions required under State law and including such other provisions as may be necessary in order to protect public interest, health, safety, and welfare of the citizens of this State.

5. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that the Energy and Transportation Board shall serve as the initial state agency in this state to be contacted by the Federal Department of Energy or any other federal agency on any matter related to the long-term or temporary storage and/or permanent disposal of high-level radioactive waste or transuranic waste.

The board shall serve as the initial agency in this state to receive any report, study, document, information or notification of proposed plans from the Federal Department of Energy or any other federal agency on any matter related to the long-term or temporary storage and/or permanent disposal of high level radioactive waste or transuranic waste. Notification of the proposed plans include notification of proposals to conduct field work, on-site evaluation, on-site testing or any other related studies. The Board shall disseminate or arrange with the Federal Department of Energy or other federal agency to disseminate information received to the council, the committee, appropriate state agencies, appropriate local units of Government and interested citizen groups.

6. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that any information of offices established in Mississippi should provide factual and scientific information and effort should be made to directly answer questions relative to nuclear waste siting posed by members of the public. The Board of Energy and Transportation, insofar as funds, personnel and budget are available, should compile information that is available to the Board for distribution to the general public.

7. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that representatives of other states, the Federal Government, and the scientific community should be consulted with the pertinent information obtained so that those responsible for the health, safety, and welfare of the people of the state of Mississippi with respect to the Nuclear Waste Program may be more fully informed so that the best possible decisions regarding the program may be made.

8. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that all decisions, except decisions relative to possible litigation, shall be made in open meetings with the full participation of those responsible for the Nuclear Waste Program and of the public of the State of Mississippi and information upon which decisions are made should be available to the public.

9. It is the policy of the State of Mississippi that the state, its agencies, subdivisions, officials, and employees should be absolved from any liability whatsoever, suffered as a result of the Nuclear Waste Disposal Program in the State of Mississippi.

10. Any violation of Policy as set forth in this document should be reported to the Nuclear Waste Policy Advisory Council for their recommendations for appropriate action by the Energy and Transportation Board.

Schools to emphasize five keys to quality

As schools strive to move toward greater excellence this year, five key criteria will be emphasized, according to Scott Thomson, executive director of the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

Thomson believes that among other characteristics, good schools have a school climate that holds high expectations for students, strong leadership, quality teachers, supportive parental involvement and a good counseling function.

"There are many components that go into building and maintaining a high quality school, but these five form the foundation," said Thomson. "They are crucial to offering the best possible learning opportunities for students."

"There's no exception to maintaining high expectations for all students in a school," said Thomson.

"That is the focal point of a school climate that leads toward academic success and involves every adult at the school—principals, teachers, coaches and counselors. They should all insist that students strive to reach their potential, both academically and socially."

"Not every student will pursue the same educational course, but the same doors should be open to everyone. If a youngster wants to study a foreign language or advanced science course and has indicated the initiative to work in that course, he or she should have the opportunity to study it."

Thomson contends that there is a dignity to learning and educators should attempt to instill that attitude into students.

The other four elements of a high quality school revolve around people—principals, teachers, parents and counselors.

"Recent research has shown that good schools have good principals," said Thomson. "Good principals assure that there are no roadblocks to learning for students, that teachers emphasize meeting the needs of students, that the resources for success are available at the school and that a climate exists that promotes achievement."

Just as principals play an important role so do teachers, who Thomson calls "the contact point for learning."

"There is no substitute for a teacher who cares and is willing to go the extra mile to motivate, challenge and provide support for students," he said. "A quality teacher is one who identifies the individual learning needs of his or her students and makes every possible attempt to meet those needs."

A sometimes overlooked, but nevertheless, key ingredient to a quality school is the counseling staff, according to Thomson.

"Along with parents, counselors can play an important role in determining what course a young adult will chart for his or her life," he said. "Counselors need to escape from the image of being paper-pushers and provide solid advice in career planning for secondary school students."

"This must mean all students: those who plan to seek further education after high school, and those who want to enter the job market directly. In a truly comprehensive high school, counselors must look after the aspirations of all students."

The final ingredient in Thomson's list is strong support from parents.

"Many, many people have said that 'the parent is a child's first teacher.' While that idea has been promoted time and time again, it has not lost its meaning. Without the support and involvement of parents, students will not understand the importance of striving for excellence in the classroom," he said.

ACUTE HEAD PAINS

Acute head pains that would begin at the base of her head and eventually extend to the sides, top and front of her head. They would last for days, and she even would wake up with them. Previous tests revealed no brain lesion and sedatives only slightly dulled the pains. Finally, she arranged an appointment at our office. We made a complete Chiropractic examination and spinal x-rays and found the spinal bones at the base of her neck were twisted out of place squeezing the nerves, making them irritated and hot. Within a week her pains were gone and a short time later good correction of the spinal bones was achieved and she has not experienced a return of these headaches since. If you suffer with headaches, pills will help the pain, but Chiropractic may end the problem by locating and removing the basic cause and add life to your years and years to your life in the process.

Personally, We Think You Deserve A Different Kind of Hospital.

Most people think that the worst thing about going to the hospital is... going to the hospital. We think you deserve something better. Our medical staff is top-flight. Exceptionally skilled. Thoroughly experienced. Our technology is state-of-the-art—from digital angiograms to computer-aided laboratory analysis. We offer the advantage of a convenient location, and the assurance of management by American Medical International. But all that doesn't mean we equate professional care with impersonal treatment. Quite the contrary. While we're big enough to provide a broad range of superb medical services, we're not so big that human concerns get lost in the shuffle. In fact, as healers, they're our first concerns. So, we give you the kind of attention that makes going to the hospital a much more comfortable experience. At Garden Park, health care is every bit as personal as it is professional. That's what makes us a different kind of hospital. The Difference Is Entirely Personal.

THIS AD IS FULL OF LIES.

LIE #1: ADVERTISING MAKES YOU BUY THINGS YOU DON'T WANT.

Advertising is often accused of inducing people to buy things against their will.

But when was the last time you returned home from the local shopping mall with a bag full of things you had absolutely no use for? The truth is, nothing short of a pointed gun can get anybody to spend money on something he or she doesn't want.

No matter how effective an ad is, you and millions of other American consumers make your own decisions. If you don't believe it, ask someone who knows firsthand about the limits of advertising. Like your local Edsel dealer.

LIE #2: ADVERTISING MAKES THINGS COST MORE. Since advertising costs money, it's natural to assume it costs you money. But the truth is that advertising often brings prices down.

Consider the electronic calculator, for example. In the late 1960's, advertising created a mass market for calculators. That meant more of them needed to be produced, which brought the price of producing each calculator down. Competition spurred by advertising brought the price down still further.

As a result, the same product that used to cost hundreds of dollars now costs as little as five dollars.

LIE #3: ADVERTISING HELPS BAD PRODUCTS SELL.

Some people worry that good advertising sometimes covers up for bad products.

But nothing can make you like a bad product. So, while advertising can help convince you to try something once, it can't make you buy it twice. If you don't like what you've bought, you won't buy it again. And if enough people feel the same way, the product dies on the shelf.

In other words, the only thing advertising can do for a bad product is help you find out it's a bad product. And you take it from there.

LIE #4: ADVERTISING IS A WASTE OF MONEY. Some people wonder why we don't just put all the money spent on advertising directly into our national economy.

The answer is, we already do.

Advertising helps products sell, which holds down prices, which helps sales even more. It creates jobs. It informs you about all the products available and helps you compare them. And it stimulates the competition that produces new and better products at reasonable prices.

If all that doesn't convince you that advertising is important to our economy, you might as well stop reading.

Because on top of everything else, advertising has paid for a large part of the newspaper you're now holding.

And that's the truth.

ADVERTISING.

County Agent's

Notes

By Lee Taylor

Despite the calendar, many Hancock County farmers were harvesting their crops throughout December.

Delayed harvest activities mean many farmers are now beginning maintenance and repair equipment before storage.

Before beginning, read the operator's service manual for the equipment. This could prevent unnecessary work and reduce the amount of time spent on each piece of machinery.

A few general precautions for maintaining and repairing equipment also should be followed.

Never leave the engine running in the shop without proper ventilation since carbon monoxide can build up to toxic levels.

Before servicing, disengage the power and stop the machine to prevent accidental power engagement that may entangle you into the machine.

Always lower the equipment to the ground and engage safety locks on hydraulic cylinders.

Use gloves to handle disc blades, cutter knives and other sharp-edged equipment. Wear steel-toed boots or other protective shoes when handling heavy parts.

Serious crushing accidents result from improper use of jacks. Check the jack capacity and the weight of the machine. Do not overload the jack, or it will fail.

Beware of jack handles that might kick. As you jack, or after raising, support the equipment with blocks or stands. Never leave equipment on the jacks.

Prevent serious injury to your back by getting help when handling heavy equipment.

PREVENT FIRE HAZARDS

Due to the unseasonably warm weather throughout the fall of 1984, most Hancock Countians have not built a fire or turned their thermostat up to warm their homes.

However, recent cold snaps have put the chill back in the season and many people are turning to the fireplace.

Most people who have fireplaces in their homes realize fireplaces are one of the least efficient ways to heat a home. However, most people enjoy the warm glow and atmosphere a fireplace gives. There are several ways to add to the enjoyment and efficiency of a fireplace this year.

A cold chimney will not draw as well as a warm one. Before lighting the fire, hold a lighted rolled-up section of a newspaper near the top and rear of the fireplace. This warms the chimney and keeps the smoke from backing up into the room when the fire is started.

Allow ashes to accumulate to about an inch on the hearth. The layer of ashes acts as insulation and helps the fire burn more efficiently. Add new logs to the rear of the fire so they will reflect the light and heat into the room.

If the house has central heating, turn it off while the fireplace is in use. Otherwise, the fireplace will draw the heated air up the chimney and hinder, rather than help the heating system.

Sparks are always a source of danger. Use screens or glass doors

FARMWEEK

Mississippi's cotton, timber and pork producers will all take interest in the reports presented on "Farmweek" at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 21 on Mississippi ETV.

One story will focus on the ways that cotton farmers are benefitting from the work of Cotton Inc., a farmer-funded research organization.

Another report will focus on the 1985 outlook for the state's pork industry.

A third story will take viewers to Holmes County, where a farmer who is planting pine seedlings on land he once reserved for food crops explains why he's joined the slow movement toward returning cropland to timberland in the state.

Market prices and analyses, production advice, a calendar of upcoming events and weather forecasts for the upcoming week are features of each edition of "Farmweek," which is a co-production of Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Cattle group elects Klein

Frank Klein Jr. of Clermont Harbor has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association.

Dick Spader, executive vice-president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Mo., said the association includes some 38,000 active life and junior members and is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world.

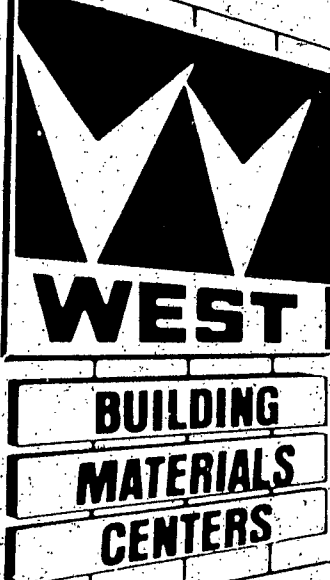

Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 10 million registered Angus.

The Association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members.

These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association.

Most of these registered Angus are used by the U.S. farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for U.S. consumption.

Not a punishment

'Time-Outs' for children excellent discipline

By Norine Barnes
Child Development
Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

A time-out is an excellent discipline method to use when children are bothersome to parents. The method works like this: George and Bill are fighting over a game. Mother says, "Since you can't play together without fighting, I think you both need a time-out. George, you go to your room, and Bill, you go to the bathroom and stay for five minutes. I will let you know when five minutes are up." (The children can be sent to any room where they can be alone.)

A time-out is not a punishment. It is just a boring time when nothing happens.

Time-outs Have Many Advantages
They can be used with children aged three to twelve. (They probably won't work with children younger than three, and they are not appropriate for teenagers.) Time-outs can be used with one, two, or three children—as long as places exist where they can be alone.

Before trying this method, sit down and explain to the children what will happen. Do this when both children and parents are in a happy frame of mind. It always helps if children know what to expect.

For example, tell the children, "The next time you argue over your toys, we are going to try something new. It's called a time-out. When I say 'Take a time-out,' it means you have to go to separate rooms and stay for five minutes. I will tell you when five minutes are up."

Call Time-outs In A Calm, Cool Way
It will not work if the parent makes it a punishment or if the parent screams, "Roger, I've told you and Eddie a hundred times not to fight over your toys. You two will just have to take a time-out and see how you like that."

The objective of the time-out is to stop undesirable behavior. Roger and Eddie can't fight when they are in separate rooms. The time-out gives them time to calm down. It gives them time to think about their behavior and to realize that parents will not allow it to continue.

The time-out is particularly helpful for fighting and quarreling between brothers and sisters. Sometimes children fight to get attention. When the parent screams and punishes, the children get attention and thus have reason to repeat their fighting.

The time-out saves parents from trying to decide who started the fight and who is to blame. Placing blame on one child only creates more jealousy.

When fighting breaks out, say, "Since you children can't get along with each other, I think you need a time-out." If Bryan says, "But she started it," say, "I don't care who started it, you both need a time-out."

When time is up, say, "Time is up." Don't say, "You can come out of your room now," or "You can come out and play now," or give any kind of directions. Just let the child know that the five minutes are up.

Calling a time-out instead of punishing makes for less tension between parent and child. It also causes less wear and tear on the parent. If the time-out does not work, parents probably are not using it correctly. Parents who have difficulty using this method are ones who have trouble saying "No" to their children.

If the child refuses to go to the room, simply take the child by the hand, lead the way to the room, and close the door. The child needs to learn that the parent means business, that once a time-out is called, the child is going to a room and stay there for five minutes. If the child won't stay in the room, the parent is probably not calling the time-out in a firm manner.

The first time a parent tries a time-out, the children will be surprised that they are not being punished. After they are familiar with this discipline method, they will accept it and may even call time-out on themselves. This is a sign of self-discipline.

Hancock Bank, Gulfport, Mississippi, has been designated as Paying Agent (the "Paying Agent"), and also as the Registrar Agent for the Bonds. The Paying Agent and/or Registrar Agent shall be subject to change by order of the Board under the conditions and in the manner provided in the Bond Resolution under which the Bonds are issued.

The successful bidder must deliver to the Transfer Agent within thirty (30) days of the date of sale, or at such other later date as may be designated by the County, the names and addresses of the registered owners of the Bonds and the denominations in which the Bonds of each maturity are to be issued. If the successful bidder fails to submit such information to the Transfer Agent by the required time, one bond may be issued for each maturity in the full amount maturing on the date registered in the name of the successful bidder.

Each principal of and interest on the Bonds will be payable by check or draft mailed to registered owners of the Bonds as of the 15th day of the month preceding the maturity date of the principal or interest payment at the addresses appearing in the registration records of the County maintained by the Transfer Agent. Payment of principal at maturity shall be conditioned on the presentation and surrender of the Bonds at the principal office of the Transfer Agent.

The Bonds shall not bear a greater overall maximum interest rate to maturity than eleven percent (11%) per annum, and shall mature in the amounts and on the dates hereinafter set forth; no bond shall bear more than one (1) rate of interest; each bond shall bear interest from its date to its stated maturity date at the interest rate or rates specified in the bid; all bonds of the same maturity shall bear the same rate of interest from date to maturity. The County will levy annually a special tax upon all taxable property within the geographical limits of the County adequate and sufficient to provide for the payment of the principal of and the interest on the Bonds as the same falls due.

Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's check, certified check, or check, issued or certified by a bank or other depository of funds of Mississippi, payable to Hancock County, Mississippi, in the amount of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000) as a guarantee of the bidder's obligation to carry out its contract and purchase the Bonds if its bid be accepted. If the successful bidder fails to purchase the Bonds pursuant to its bid and contract, then the amount of such good faith check shall be retained by the County as liquidated damages for such failure. No interest will be allowed on the amount of the good faith deposit. All checks of successful bidders will be returned immediately on award of the Bonds. All proposals shall remain firm for three hours after the time specified for the opening of proposals and an award of the Bonds or rejection of proposals, will be made by the County within said period of time.

The award, if any, will be made to the bidder complying with the terms of sale and offering to purchase the Bonds at the rate specified in the proposal. The net interest cost will be determined by computing the aggregate interest on the Bonds over the life of the Bonds, less the rates of interest specified by the bidder, less premium offered, if any. It is required that each proposal be accompanied by a statement of the net interest cost (computed to six decimal places), but such statement will not be considered a part of the proposal.

City to renew clinic license

BY DENA BISNETTE

The owner of New Woman Medical Center will have his privilege license renewed under a judge's opinion but can expect to face further legal actions directed toward closing the Bay St. Louis clinic.

In legal action initiated Tuesday by clinic attorney Garnett Harrison as a response to Mayor Larry Bennett's public statement that he would not renew the license, Circuit Judge Ruble Griffin threw a request that would have forced renewal out of court.

Griffin said that the clinic itself needs no license. Instead, renewal should be made in the name of Dr. Larry R. Lipscombe of Jackson, the clinic's owner.

Any legal action regarding the license should have been filed in the doctor's name, the judge said.

Bennett had said Friday that he would not renew a license for the clinic because he felt the presence of a facility where abortions are performed would endanger citizens.

He said he took the action in view of recent bombings of abortion clinics in other cities including New Orleans, La., and Pensacola, Fla.

Bennett and Harrison both said Wednesday that they have heard of no actual threats of violence against the clinic, although there have been peaceful demonstrations in front of the facility.

Bennett also stated that he still plans to try to close the clinic.

"I will go ahead and renew the privilege license according to the judge's instructions, but as soon as I have had an opportunity to discuss the matter with the city attorney, I plan to file for an injunction to close the clinic," the mayor said.

"This clinic needs to be closed as a public menace," he added.

The clinic was closed temporarily Friday, but reopened Tuesday on Harrison's advice.

"I'm pleased there has been a clarification of what is required in regard to the privilege license, and if an injunction is requested, my clients and I are prepared to fight it," she said Wednesday.

However, I would hate to see the taxpayers' money spent on something that has already been decided by the U.S. Supreme Court," she added, referring to the clinic's legal right to provide abortions.

She also said she felt Bennett's action in attempting to close the clinic was an inappropriate response to a possible threat.

"If the mayor is convinced that the city of Bay St. Louis is in danger, I think it's the duty of the city and its police department to increase security at the clinic."

"There is no question that there have been violent acts in cities throughout the country, but other cities with clinics have responded with increased security."

"As far as I've been able to determine, not a single clinic has been closed," Harrison added.

"To my knowledge, Mayor Bennett's position is unique."

City Attorney Joseph Gex, who said last week that he had advised Bennett against refusing to renew the license because such an action might provoke a lawsuit, was out of town Wednesday and could not be reached for comment.

In other action during the first week of the January Circuit Court term, a grand jury was empaneled Monday.

Jurors include Ina C. Whavers, James J. Rutherford, Hollis J. Ladner, Luby M. Peterson, Eugene R. Dillman, Jeffery J. Colson, Sammy Kaye Lee, Jeanette L. Cain, Donald E. Cuevas and Lillie Mae Acosta.

Also included are Debra L. Cwiklik, Jane C. Baumgartner, Nancy L. Russ, Viretta M. Ladner, Donna H. Van Wyckhouse, James R. Ginn, Sammy V. Banks, Grace M. Taylor, John L. Farve Jr. and Mae W. Hogan.

Also on Monday, a docket including 22 civil cases and 18 criminal cases was set for the first week of the four-week term.

Suspects arrested in ring

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Four persons were arrested Tuesday night who are believed by authorities to be connected to a burglary ring which may be responsible for some 20 to 30 burglaries.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson of Hancock County said three adults and one juvenile were apprehended and numerous household items were being recovered.

Peterson listed those arrested as Randy W. Powell, 18, N. Shore Drive, (Bayou Phillips); George E. Singleton IV, 19, P.O. Box 215, Lakeshore; Joseph A. George, 19, Rt. 7, Box 58, (Bayside Park), Bay St. Louis.

A 17-year-old juvenile was taken into custody in connection with the burglaries which occurred over a six-month period in Hancock County and the Waveland area.

Powell and Singleton were charged with burglary and George is accused of receiving stolen property.

Bond was set at $35,000 each, Peterson added.

The juvenile was turned over to Hancock County Youth Court authorities.

Late Wednesday Delbert Seay, Hancock County investigator, said the sheriff's department was still recovering stolen property in connection with the burglaries.

Seay estimated items recovered so far are valued between $5,000 and $7,000.

The sheriff's department is being assisted by Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille, Waveland investigator, in the investigation.

In other police matters, a 38-year-old male Tuesday was arrested and charged by the sheriff's department with the alleged rape of his 15-year-old daughter, Peterson reported.

The suspect is lodged in the Hancock County jail in lieu of a $25,000 bond.

The sheriff's department is being assisted by the Welfare Department in the investigation.

The Sea Coast Echo, in cooperation with the sheriff's department, is withholding the name of the suspect in order to protect the identity of the victim.

"It's almost humorous but it's actually alarming that one individual can bring charges against a group that has operated in this county for so many years," Dumestre said.

Hanemann, commission treasurer and Humane Society secretary, told Aronstein that some of his charges were "a private matter between Mr. Aronstein and the society."

Those problems included a dispute between Aronstein and Hanemann over whether Aronstein had paid his society dues.

That dispute arose after Aronstein argued that the agencies were run by "a closed clique" and had failed to inform members of meeting schedules.

"Those matters have nothing to do with the county board, but we feel that as a citizen Mr. Aronstein is entitled to have whatever information he wants, and that's why we're here today," Hanemann explained.

Also discussed at the meeting was a proposal by Roger Dale Ladner that the county ranger add small animal pick-up to his duties in order to improve the commission's efficiency in the county.

Any action concerning Ladner's suggestion will have to be taken in a regular board of supervisors meeting.

Folks who think they always must speak the truth overlook another good choice—silence.

Randolph, board dispute responsibility for dumps

BY DENA BISNETTE

The question of who is responsible for cleaning up illegal dumps on three parcels of 16th section land has started a dispute between the board of supervisors and Hancock County School Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

A meeting in Jackson Tuesday between Board of Supervisors Attorney Walter Gex III and Bureau of Pollution Control officials is expected to help settle the matter.

However, Gex was still in Jackson Wednesday afternoon and no information on the results of the meeting was available.

The dumps, located in the communities of Pearlington, Standard and Necaise Crossing, have not been approved by the BPC or the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Randolph said the school board was informed last year that whoever is responsible for the dumps must clean up the sites or pay a $10,000 per day fine.

The school board took no action on the matter because it was believed the three sites were under lease to the county, Randolph said.

However, it was later discovered that although a lease was prepared and sent to the board of supervisors, it was never signed.

Randolph appeared before the board Monday in an attempt to have the supervisors sign the lease, thereby giving the county the responsibility for the dumps before Jan. 15.

Jan. 15, he explained, was the deadline set for the submission of a closure plan to the BPC, which has also set a May 31 deadline for the completion of the clean-up.

The supervisors decided not to sign the lease pending the outcome of the meeting with BPC officials in Jackson, saying they believe the problem falls under school board jurisdiction since the dumps are on 16th section land.

"I hope they resolved the matter Tuesday in Jackson," said Randolph, "but if the EPA says fine somebody and the school district is found responsible, we will have to abide by their regulations."

He said he expects some word on the matter Thursday.

While discussing the matter, the board heard from Jeff Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

Taylor offered the board his agency's assistance in making a study to find out what to do with the garbage currently on the three sites.

Although the board took no action on Taylor's proposal Monday, Gex asked that the possibility of a study be considered and that the study include information on some type of garbage collection for the county.

Waveland doctor hurt in collision

BY DENA BISNETTE

Dr. Shelia Gottschalk Black of Waveland was released from Hancock General Hospital Tuesday after suffering back injuries in a car-train collision Sunday.

Hospital Administrator Philip Langston said she was listed in good condition when she was released.

Black was reportedly driving across railroad tracks crossing Waveland Avenue when an oncoming train collided with her car, according to a report from the Waveland Police Department.

A witness reportedly told police that the woman crossed the tracks slowly and did not appear to see the train.

Also injured was Dr. Black's daughter, Destin Black, 12, a passenger in the car. She was treated at Hancock General Hospital and released.

Wiggins woman arrested, charged with forgery

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Wiggins woman is still being held in the Hancock County Jail following her arrest last week on three charges of forgery.

Kathy Lott, 31, turned herself in Jan. 8 at the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. She was arrested by Investigator Delbert Seay and Deputy Nathan Hoda.

Lott is accused of using a driver's license belonging to a person who had been dead about two years and forging that individual's signature on three checks cashed at different locations in Hancock County.

Bond has been set at $1,500, but she has yet to make bail, Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Tuesday.

He said Lott is wanted on other charges in Pearl River County and Picayune.

Lott's arrest was made in connection with an investigation that resulted in the Jan. 2 arrest of Dwight Lott, 34, of McNell on five counts of forgery stemming from alleged attempts to pass over $1,000 in forged checks in Hancock County.

Peterson said Dwight Lott was also wanted in Pearl River County and has since been turned over to authorities there.

tion to putting up a few thousand dollars to help fund the project," he said.

Commissioner David McDonald said he would be very much in favor of participating in the project, especially in view of the recent improvements at Stennis Air Park to attract industry.

Other commissions agreed and a resolution was passed for the commission to participate in the project.

Officers for the 1985 year were also selected during the meeting. The officers include Ronald Arfignues, president; Oliver Frierson, vice president; Harry Baxter, secretary; and David McDonald, treasurer.

Parents must realize

Fears dreadfully real for small children

By Nörine Barnes
Child Development Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

The world can be a scary place for young children. Things that seem perfectly safe to adults look dangerous and harmful to a small child.

Their fears may be ridiculous but they are dreadfully real to a child. Try to see the world through a child's eyes. This will help with understanding why children are afraid now and then.

During the first three years life brings one new thing after another. Even such ordinary things as a vacuum cleaner and barking dogs can startle a baby. Unfamiliar people and new situations also can be upsetting. Even a person as familiar as a favorite uncle who has grown a beard can confuse a small child.

Gradually, however, the real world becomes more familiar, predictable and secure. When young children hear the piercing siren of a fire engine, they know what's making the sound. They can make sense of something new because they've had more experience.

Preschool children are apt to develop a new set of fears. By age three or so, children are comfortable with what is, but they worry about what could be. It's difficult for them to separate what is real from what is imagined. A child imagines dangers such as monsters coming to hurt children at night and anticipate disasters such as accidents, wars or death. For the first time a child may become afraid of the dark and troubled by nightmares. All of a sudden a child may worry about something happening to his or her body.

Children have different ways of overcoming fears. Some need to learn all about the situation they fear. Some children need to control the frightening objects themselves. They need to turn the vacuum cleaner on and off. Still other children use their imaginations to combat fear. Pretending to bark and act like a dog can help a child overcome a fear of dogs. And of course it always helps to share a fear with a parent.

Some parents use fear as a method of control, thereby causing in the child unnatural dread of persons, things or occurrences.

"If you don't take your medicine, the doctor will give you a shot" is a frequent threat or "If you don't behave, the boogie man will get you."

Because your children have faith in you, you can help them express and overcome their fears. Unfortunately you also have the power to intensify your children's fears. The way you respond when they are afraid is most important. Some ways are helpful, others do not help at all. Do not:

—laugh at children's fears.
—force them into situations they fear.

—ignore children's fears.
—transmit your own fears to your children.

Do:

—Accept their fears as real.
—remain calm.
—remove them from the situation, then talk about it.

—help them understand their fears.
—give them chances to watch other people interact confidently with the things they fear.

Children readily soak up the fears of others. Often they fear mice or thunderstorms only because adults close by are afraid. Parents who appear anxious about the child's fears tend to intensify rather than diminish the reaction.

SINGLE HOMES: THE FIRST CHOICE

Q: What forecasts are being made in terms of the type housing that will be demanded in the next decade? Will the single-family home as we know it today still be a wise investment? D.M., E

A: Dear D.M.: A house on its own lot will continue to be the number one choice for Americans for as far into the future as any forecaster dares to look.

It may not be the only choice, and it will change in a multitude of small ways, but well into the next century when you drive into a typical subdivision, it will look very similar to what you see today.

One important reason for the continued popularity of such housing is the increase in the number of two-income families.

Estimates are that by 1990 two-thirds of American wives will work outside the home.

The number of people entering the 30-plus age group will also fuel housing demands.

By 1990 the cost of a house as a percentage of total income is expected to rise to more than 40 percent.

Some experts are predicting that future homes will be smaller but they will not look smaller. New open-space designs featuring high ceilings, more glass and more use of skylights will assure that the residents will not feel crowded.

The average size of new homes in 1990 is predicted to be 1,200 square feet with three bedrooms. The inclination toward smaller families sets this trend.

In the future, demand for new housing design may change, but the motivation for buying a single-family home will most likely remain the same.

According to the National Association of Home Builders, the most common reason for purchasing a home is that buyers just want to own their own homes.

Soybean feed introduced to Japanese hog raisers

The American Soybean Association is showing Japanese hog producers how they can pinch pennies in their feed costs. And their penny-pinching is good news for Mississippi soybean farmers like J. Tol Thomas of Cruger.

At Soybean Association seminars, influential Japanese hog producers use microcomputers to calculate for themselves how they can replace fish meal with soybean meal to make a more economical, efficient hog feed.

Gil Griffiths is Soybean Association market development division manager for Asia. He says, "Traditionally Japanese producers rely on fish meal to supply protein to feeds, because they don't know as much about soybean meal."

"The producers who attend our seminars are leaders in swine production in Japan, and they will switch to soybean meal when they see its cost benefits," says Griffiths. He estimates that as these influential hog producers tell other producers how to use soybean meal in swine feed, Japanese demand for soybeans could increase by as much as 42.5 million bushels. That's equal to about 57 percent of Mississippi's expected 1984 soybean production.

Thomas is a director of the Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board which invests soybean checkoff funds in market expansion projects of the Soybean Association. He says that these seminars in Japan are one of many market expansion success stories that show soybean users how to be more efficient while increasing the potential market power of U.S. soybean farmers.

Banana boats are a'comin' and a'goin' at a mind-boggling pace these days at Mississippi's Port of Gulfport, but chances are you will neither hear the lilting songs of the stevedores, nor smell the appetizing fragrance of ripened fruit, or even slip on a banana peel if you visit this bustling seaport these days.

During the recent 63rd annual meeting of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation the farm delegates were invited to visit the Port of Gulfport where farm commodities are shipped to foreign destinations.

Modern innovations in the shipping industry make a port visit one of many surprises at what has happened late in this century to streamline the ocean movement of bulky merchandise.

Cotton shipments through this facility, however, are little changed today from the shipping techniques practiced at Atlantic and Gulf Coastal ports two centuries ago. We watched as transport trucks arrived with up to about 100 bales of compressed cotton sandwiched and tied to flat trucks.

The trucks backed up to the wharf adjacent to the ship being loaded and motorized end loaders were used to lift each bale from the truck and carry it to mechanical conveyors for loading into the hold of the ship.

Refined sugar from the fields of Louisiana was sacked and waiting for rains to end before they too were mechanically placed into the hold of another vessel waiting at dockside.

But the banana operation was staggering in both magnitude and mechanical sophistication. The banana boat which was docked alongside the pier had its own crane system built into the vessel which handled containerized shipments at an amazing speed.

A massive fleet of over 500 company owned refrigerated trucks occupy leased space in the dock area. Within a 10 to 12 hour period a banana boat arrives at dockside and unloads its cargo of bananas and loads empty containers for return to Central America.

The ship's mobile crane lifts a refrigerated truck body loaded with bananas in cardboard boxes from the ship's storage area to dockside every few minutes where it gently sets the containers down on a waiting truck chassis.

A few levers are turned which secure the truck body to the chassis and another truckload of bananas leaves the dock for mid-America.

As each section of the ship is emptied of its truck-body containerized cargo the ship is reloaded with empty truck-body containers for return to the Central American banana producing countries where the process is simply reversed.

As each empty truck rolled to a halt beside the banana boat a mobile crane lowered its cabled and chained arms and hands to dockside to lift the truck body aboard the ship and the body-less truck drove away and parked in its slot at the dock until time to pick up a full cargo of bananas from the next arriving vessel.

The operation is a mechanical marvel of this modern age. But it lacks the drama of the sights, sounds and smell of former days when men loaded and unloaded these boats by hand.

One of the banana ships may carry as many as 190 of these 18-wheeler truck bodies loaded with bananas. Yet, these existing container ships are scheduled for replacement with larger vessels increasing the number of 40 foot containers or truck bodies in service on a single run to 1,300.

Farm representatives touring the facility also saw a ship at dockside loaded with pineapples. Other ships at the wharves waiting to load were to deliver sugar from Louisiana refineries to Jamaica and cotton from this area to Yugoslavia.

The popularity of the facilities of Gulfport is partly due to the lack of big city traffic congestion in the Mississippi Gulf Coast area and more importantly due to our geographical location on the downstream side of heartland America with handy access to world shipping lanes.

It appears that Mississippi's shipping role in international trade through the Port of Gulfport is a very bright spot in our state's present and future business picture.

Income and the Elderly

Older people, generally, are in better economic condition than the elderly of several decades ago. The increased prosperity is due to gains in Social Security benefits and larger pension coverages.

The four main sources of income for the elderly (65 years and older) include employment earnings, Social Security benefits, other retirement income and pensions and investment.

Some interesting facts about income and the elderly are:

—Older women have lower incomes than older men. In 1980, the median income of older women was $552.17 per month compared to $611.83 per month for older men.

—Unmarried older women are more likely to have an income source other than Social Security than older couples or unmarried men.

On Social Security
The 1985 Social Security earnings limit for people age 65 through 69 will be $7,200, up from $6,960 last year. There is no ceiling at age 70 and over.

Cost of raising a child

The cost of raising a youngster to age 18 is now approaching $250,000. It's one of the most expensive price tags an average couple will pay for during their lifetime.

This total includes direct costs to house and feed the child, as well as indirect costs, such as salary lost by a stay-at-home parent.

As your family increases, costs per child decline. It's also less expensive to raise a child in a non-urban setting.

Housing costs the most consuming 34 percent of the total.

Food is second, followed by transportation, clothing and medical expenses. Not only will your new bundle of joy be expensive, but he or she will increase your workload—by an estimated 19,000 hours of housework.

But for millions of Americans, a child is a priceless and precious commodity—worth far more than dollars and cents.

On banking fees

Average monthly checking account fees have increased by $1.02 over the past three years. Check-bouncing charges have risen from an average of $6.40 to $9.46. The cost of having the bank balance your checkbook has risen from $3.35 to $9.72 per hour. The reason for these higher charges is to offset lower earnings on long-term deposits on customers.

On car prices

The average price of a new car in 1983 is over $10,000. This figure includes average options chosen, taxes and title fees. As a comparison, in 1973 the average car price was $4,051, and in 1950 it was $2,210.

On Series EE savings bonds

Just a few years ago, the Series EE savings bond was given little regard in the savings and investment realm. In 1982 the formula for interest rates on these savings bonds was changed. The interest rate is now 85 percent of the five year U.S. government securities.

Also, a floor of 7½ percent was added. This means interest rates can no longer drop below the 7½ percent rate. The rates are "variable," however. They change every six months. These changes have made the Series EE savings bond a much better alternative for the average saver. Another rule to remember with these bonds, however, is that you must hold the bond at least five years to get this type of return.

Shrimping license purchase deadline set at March 31

The Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources reports all licenses issued by the bureau except a new 1985 recreational shrimping license must be purchased by March 31.

A bureau spokesman said the deadline also applies to shrimping licenses purchased for new boats and boats purchased from individuals.

The bureau noted the recreational license—which imposes catch and net size limits—may be purchased at anytime during the year.

The expiration date on all licenses issued in 1984 will be extended to April 30.

Licenses issued in 1985 and thereafter will expire on April 30 of the subsequent year.

Pearl River College basketball stars from the past returned to campus Thursday for a 20-year reunion. All but three of the 1964-65 state championship team were on hand.

Wildcat 1960 champs to convene Jan. 24

The 1960 Pearl River College Wildcats shocked the Mississippi junior college basketball world 25 years ago when they won the overall state title.

The 1980 Wildcat "wonders" entered the South Tournament with an 8-12 record and a next to last place seed. Before the dust settled in late February the Jack Gallagher led 'Cats had won the south and the overall crown.

Thursday, Jan. 24, the same Wildcats will return to the PRC campus for their 25th reunion.

"We were simply terrible during the regular season," said George Dale, Mississippi Insurance Commissioner, and organizer of the event. "When I think about us winning the state championship that year I just shake my head."

That year PRC defeated Jones 82-71, Perkinston 72-68 and then Southwest 71-59 to win the South championship. In the overall tournament the Cats beat East Central and for a special reception, dinner and presentation at the halftime of the PRC-Hinds contest.

Bay St. Louis players join Wildcat reunion

It had been two decades since some of the former Wildcats had set foot on the PRC campus. It was a general opinion that the PRC campus had changed much more than the players of the mid-sixties.

Joining the last Wildcat state championship team were players of the 1963-64 team and the 1965-66 team. Roy Danforth, coach of the '64 team and Bob Garrison, coach of the '65 and '66 teams were also on hand.

then Northeast for the title. The Wildcats finished the year with a 13-12 mark.

A reception is planned for the team from 5-6 p.m. in the PRC cafeteria with a dinner to follow in the Rotary Room. The 1960 state champs will be honored at halftime of the Gulf Coast-Wildcat game in the PRC Coliseum.

The 1960 team included Coach Jack Gallagher; Elmer Cook, Columbia; Ed Ginn, Angie, La.; Clyde Slayton, Picayune; Sam Pace, Hattiesburg; Dave Votaw, Wilmington, Mass.; Wendell Traylor, Poplarville; George Hayman, Prentiss; Jack Bush, Hattiesburg; J.T. Ladner, Chalmette, La.; John Williams, Columbia; George Dale, Clinton; Grady Hickman, Baton Rouge, La.; Jimmy Holden, Poplarville; Louie Lofton, Arlington, Va.; Farrell Holden, Poplarville; Henry Hardy, Jackson; and Freddy Jermy, Columbia, deceased.

Danforth left Pearl River College for the University of Syracuse where he led his team to several top-ten rankings, and trips to the NJCAA final four and NIT finals.

He left Syracuse to coach at Tulane. Today, he is assistant athletic director at Tulane University.

Bob Garrison is still in the coaching business. In fact, he was to be in Poplarville Thursday anyway as his Hinds Eagles were scheduled to play the Wildcats.

Hinds defeated the Wildcats 90-75 to keep their record perfect to 14-0. The Eagles were ranked eighth in the nation coming into the ballgame.

Most of the returning Wildcat players are still in the general area, but Tom Humphreys who was manager of the '65 team, made the trip from Hollis, N.H.

Returning members of the 1965 team included David Hanberry of Hattiesburg. Hanberry's son, Dwayne, is a member of the 1985 Wildcats and was a starter for the 'Cats Thursday night.

Louis Courtney of Sumrall was also on hand. Courtney and Humphreys were responsible for getting the group together.

Other players making the trip back to the River campus were Jimmy Bush, Magee; Andy Wilks, Hattiesburg; Richard Schaefer, Bay St. Louis; Jerry Arnold, Kenner; Don Baxter, Picayune; Leroy Luke, Laurel and Raymond Ward of Vancleave.

The 1964 players included Jimmy Shivers of Bassfield; Larry Bullock, Columbia; and David Rogers of Hattiesburg; 1966 Wildcats included Larry Johnson, Eddie Peteron and Jerry Spell, all of Bay St. Louis.

The 1965 Wildcat team defeated Mississippi Delta for the state championship while the 1964 and 1966 teams lost in the overall state finals to Gulf Coast Junior College.

the President's Cup.

Mary Hays was the Most Improved Golfer.

Winners in association play Thursday, Jan. 10 include:

Trophy Day overall winner, Eva Bond.

—Third Flight—Terry Settle, first; Pat Sexton, second; Jo Gatipon, low putts.

Bass fishing institute slated in Baton Rouge

There's more to fishing than just luck, and fishermen can now learn how to eliminate the luck factor in fishing by attending a Bass Institute offered in Baton Rouge, La., the weekend of Feb. 9-10.

The program is conducted by the American Fishing Institute of Indiana State University.

Instruction is directed by professional anglers who provide students with the newest fishing facts and theories.

Instruction is conducted in eight one-hour general sessions. Topics such as "Balanced Tackle," "Lures," "Seasonal Patterns," "Water Classification" (reservoirs-lakes-ponds-strip pits-rivers-stream), "Electronic Fishing," "Structure Fishing" and "Fish Migration."

Multi-media visual aids are used to present known facts and theories of bass fishing.

Numerous concurrent sessions provide choices for the students: a demonstration on lure techniques at a 3,500 gallon aquarium; manufacturer's exhibits; flycasting; advanced sonar and map reading; area species in addition to bass.

Youth and ladies can attend special classes designed especially for them.

Each full paying student receives a comprehensive text which "Bassmaster" magazine has called "one of the best bass fishing references in print. Period."

For additional information contact the American Fishing Institute, Indiana State University, Terre Haute, Ind. 47809 or call (812) 232-6311, ext. 5895.

SIMPLE IS SMART.

I've always found that the smartest way to do a job is to keep it simple. Why have separate gas heat and electric air conditioning in your home, when you can do both jobs with one simple unit?

The comfort machine. A Heat & Cool Pump like the ones used in Good Cents Home, built from scratch.

The comfort machine does all the work of an old-fashioned gas heating system and separate air conditioning. It's more efficient than natural gas. Costs less to operate.

Call Mississippi Power for more information about the year-round comfort machine. It's the simplest and smartest way to heat and cool your home.

Student exchange groups seek local host families

PASS REPRESENTATIVE

Host families are being sought for 25 high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, France, Italy, Brazil, Ecuador and Australia for the school year 1985-86, in a program sponsored by the American International Student Exchange.

The students, 15 through 17 years old, will arrive in the United States in August 1985, attend the local high school, and return to their home country in June 1986.

The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families with small children are welcome to participate in both programs.

Host families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

AISE is also seeking American high school students 15 through 17 who would like to spend a high school year in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Switzerland, France, Spain or Australia or participate in a three-week host family stay combined with a 10-day bus travel throughout Western Europe or England.

Families interested in these programs should contact Dianne Krogstad of Pass Christian, 452-2114.

PICAYUNE REPRESENTATIVE

The ASSE International Student Exchange is seeking local families to serve as hosts for 15 Scandinavian, German, Swiss, British and Dutch high school students who are part of the ASSE exchange visitor program.

Carole Powell, southern director for ASSE, said the non-profit ASSE is affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education and is officially designated by the U.S. Information Agency as an Exchange Visitor Program.

The students, 16 and 17 years old, are fluent in English and are carefully selected for the program based on their high school performance, good character, and interest in the ASSE program.

All of them are covered by comprehensive medical and liability insurance and have adequate money for personal needs supplied by their parents. The host family furnishes meals and housing.

The ASSE program offers families the opportunity to share North American cultural and educational experiences with an European young person and, at the same time, to learn about another culture and language.

Powell indicated that a volunteer area representative, provided by ASSE, will contact the host family and the guest student on a regular basis to assure that everything is going smoothly.

Families interested in hosting and students interested in studying abroad for the 1985-86 school year may call Lyn Oerting at (601) 798-0557.

Congressman Dowdy to address Pearl River Valley Association

The 14th annual meeting of the Pearl River Valley Development Association will be held at noon Thursday, Jan. 24 at the Sheraton Regency on North State Street in Jackson. Association president Frank Day said Fourth District Congressman Wayne Dowdy will be the featured speaker.

Since his election to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1981, Congressman Dowdy has worked diligently to implement protective measures that will end the devastating personal and public damages caused by record flooding along all reaches of the Pearl River, Day said.

Before the 98th Congress adjourned last year, he was responsible for including authorization for Pearl River flood control projects in the House Omnibus Water Resource Bill. His support for these projects continues this year with the submission of a bill during the opening hours of the 99th Congressional Session to authorize the construction of the Shoccoe Dry Dam, Day continued.

Major General Norman G. Delbridge Jr., deputy commander and chief of engineers with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Washington, D.C., will also address the members.

Delbridge is the principal assistant and advisor to the Chief of Engineers for the Corps' water resource development and management activities, including navigation, flood control, municipal and industrial water supply and recreation.

The association is a private dues-paying organization that has been active in the development of water and related land resources since 1963.

Membership is composed of community leaders representing each county in the Pearl River Valley.

Delisle Elementary accreditation renewed

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, through its Commission on Elementary Schools, has awarded continuing accreditation to Delisle Elementary School by action taken during the association's 89th annual meeting in Atlanta Dec. 9-12.

Through accreditation, school staff and faculty members will benefit by knowing that conditions for teaching in accredited schools meet certain minimum standards and that efforts are continuously made to improve these conditions. Regional standards require adequate facilities and facilities and their effective use.

Citizens are assured of accountability and of value for their tax dollars through the process of standard setting and the regular reevaluation of SACS member institutions. Communities with accredited schools can be confident that their institutions compare favorably with others in the region. Accredited schools are a "plus" for those who are interested in relocating their families and businesses.

Founded in 1895, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is one of six regional accrediting bodies in the United States. More than 11,000 member public and private universities, colleges, junior colleges, occupational institutions, secondary schools, middle schools and elementary schools enroll approximately five million students.

Traditional views inhibit female student attitudes toward science

Traditionally, men and women haven't had equal representation in science careers and two Mississippi State University researchers think they know why.

Studies by Herbert M. Handley and Linda W. Morse of the Bureau of Educational Research and Evaluation at MSU have confirmed that boys and girls hold different views of science in early adolescence.

These differences become more pronounced by the end of the eighth grade, the study said, when students begin planning their high school courses.

Although achievement levels for boys and girls remained equal both in science and mathematics through the eighth grade, fewer girls than boys elected to take courses in advanced science and math.

In Mississippi, fewer than three percent of the girls take physics in high school.

In a two-year study, Handley and Morse studied the effect of other people on the attitudes of boys and girls toward science.

They found girls did not perceive their parents to be enthusiastic advocates of advanced science courses or careers.

"As reported by girls, parents would endorse for them careers in science which are traditional for girls (nursing, laboratory technology, science teaching) if the girls chose to study for these careers," according to the study.

The girls also felt their parents would discourage them from entering career areas such as engineering and physics, fields traditionally dominated by men.

In contrast, boys felt their parents would encourage them to enter any career in science for which they were qualified.

Both boys and girls felt that teachers have higher expectations for boys in science than for girls. Handley and Morse made classroom observations which supported this perception. In science classes, teachers asked boys more questions than girls and spent more time clarifying and elaborating for boys, whether the teachers were male or female.

Children's own peers are the most influential group for adolescents and both boys and girls selected males more often than females when choosing a science class leader. Both boys and girls viewed males as more dominant and assertive in science activities, as more idea-oriented and less people-caring, and as being more risk-taking.

More male students saw themselves as individuals with a strong self-concept in science," Handley said. "The male students had confidence that they could achieve better in science than their female counterparts" no matter whose academic records in science and math were better. And, the girls agreed.

More recommended, "Care must be taken by science educators to structure programs which give girls opportunity to achieve in science and to secure recognition for this achievement. Science teachers need to examine their own behaviors in classroom interactions to insure they are not reinforcing lower science self-concepts in girls."

Pass High students nominated for honors

Sixteen seniors and four juniors at Pass Christian High School have been nominated for the 1984-85 Who's Who Among American High School Students and Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

For this honor, students must have demonstrated leadership in academics, athletics, extracurricular activities, or community service.

The seniors nominated include Dana Ashley, Joy Bradley, Karen Bradley, Alan Dedeaux, Herbert Dedeaux, Leonese Govan, Cheryl Himes, Gertha Laurie, Deborah McKay, Tam Nguyen, Arnetta Payne, Sonya Piernas, Sherrell Swanier, Thuy Tran, Abby Van-Calsen and Rhonda Whal. The juniors nominated are William Carroll, Angela Moran, Trang Nguyen and Tran Tran.

School district continues search for handicapped

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District is participating in an on-going statewide effort to identify, locate and evaluate children age 6 to 21 who are physically, mentally, communicatively and/or emotionally handicapped.

Early identification of children in need of special educational services is most important in determining present and future program needs within school districts, said Betty Ashe, special education supervisor.

"If you know of a handicapped child who should be contacted by a special education staff member, please call me at 467-1021 or write Betty Ashe, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, 750 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520," Ashe added.

Atlanta Chamber holds workshop

The Gulf Coast Arts Council recently sponsored a workshop of the Atlanta Chamber Players at Coast Episcopal High School. The group tours with an ensemble of piano, violin, viola, cello, flute and clarinet.

Each player talked about his instrument and demonstrated the range. They played together in various smaller groupings.

The group, which has been together for nine years, has a thirty-week season each year. All the players now reside in Atlanta, Ga., although each player's background and schooling was from all over the Eastern United States.

The group gave a concert at Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian and another workshop for Pass Christian High School students.

Alcalen was chosen for academic achievement.

USM plans to upgrade robot

A $750 grant has been awarded the University of Southern Mississippi to fund the upgrading of a teaching robot.

According to Dr. John W. Lipscomb Jr., associate professor of engineering technology at USM, the grant was made available by the Society of Manufacturing Engineers (SME) Education Foundation. The money, he said, will be used to purchase software that will allow easier communication with the robot.

The Mitsubishi teaching robot, acquired by the university in 1983, is used along with one other robot in robotics courses of the mechanical engineering technology program.

The new software, Dr. Lipscomb pointed out, will allow a supervisory high-level language to program the robot instead of controlling the robot through its five motors.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION—A recent Gallup study on the problem drinker in American society revealed that 50% of all parents set no guidelines regarding the use of alcoholic beverages for their children. Yet, one drinker in ten admits that his pattern of alcohol use would not be a good model for his children to follow, while another 15% express uncertainty or do not give an opinion.

What percentage of Americans say that alcohol has adversely affected their family lives?

- a) One out of twenty
- b) One out of ten
- c) One out of four
- d) One out of two

ANSWER—That America faces a serious drinking problem is seen from the fact that one person in four (almost 25%) says an alcohol-related problem has adversely affected his family life. The figure in 1974 was 12%. In addition, the proportion of Americans who admit to overindulgence on occasion has increased from 18% one year ago to 23% today.
